PROBATION WITH RESTRICTIVE CONDITIONS SUPERVISION

As a result of being sentenced by the Court of Common Pleas of the Fifty-Ninth Judicial District of Pennsylvania, Elk and Cameron Counties, to a period of probation, parole and/or probation with restrictive conditions supervision. You shall be subject to the following reasonable rules, terms and conditions of your supervision, set forth below, which the Court finds necessary to ensure and assist you in leading a law abiding life. You must strictly comply with and not violate any of the conditions of your supervision set forth below.

While you are on supervision, the Court has the inherent power at any time to terminate, including revoking, your continued supervision, to lessen the conditions of supervision that you are subject to or to increase the conditions of your supervision that you are subject to if the Court finds that you present an identifiable threat to public safety.

The Court may increase the conditions of your supervision, impose a brief sanction or revoke your probation, parole and/or probation with restrictive conditions supervision upon proof of the violation of a specified condition of your supervision. If your supervision is revoked, all sentencing alternatives are available to the Court at the time resentencing as were available to the Court at time of your initial sentencing with due consideration given to the Court at time of resentencing of the amount of time you spent on supervision.

If your probation, parole, and/or probation with restrictive conditions supervision is revoked by the Court, the Court may resentence you to total confinement if you have been convicted of another crime, your conduct indicates that you are likely to commit another crime if you are not imprisoned or a sentence of confinement is essential to vindicate the authority of the Court.

Your supervision may not be revoked or the conditions of your probation, parole, and/or probation with restrictive conditions supervision increased pursuant to your Order of Sentence except after a hearing at which time the Court shall consider the record of the sentencing proceeding and the evidence of your conduct while on supervision.

If you believe any of your rights have been violated as a result of your probation or parole supervision, you may submit a timely written complaint to:
